CLASS HISTORY

WE started high school way back in '32 and now as graduation nears, our thoughts turn back to the "good ole days" when we were the dumbest of freshman classes. Mr. Jefferson, Miss Mattingly, and Mr. Holladay presided over this rowdy group of unlearned "freshies." This year Detention Hall was started, which has made a seventh school period for many. This year passed swiftly and our quality credits were sadly lacking.

OUR SOPHOMORE year marked the turning point of our school life because we entered clubs and activities for the first time and were we proud! A little more studying was done by most of the class to make the credits that we failed to get while Freshmen. If possible, we were rougher than the Freshmen and as a result of one of our eraser battles, George Washington's picture was broken. (It hasn't been fixed yet). During our year in Mr. Jefferson's and Mrs. Hudson's home rooms the Girls' Hi-Y was organized and the boys' and girls' clubs went to Harrisonburg for the conference. J. B. Carpenter, class of '34, presided over a very successful Culpeper Youth Conference. Several Sophomores played in many varsity athletics and made names for themselves in this field. The Dramatic Club gave two short plays instead of one three-act production. The Glee Club was also started. Final exams again made us feel a whole year older.

THINK of this, folks! For two years we had waited to get in the Junior room for our class ring, but everything changed so that we had to wait until our Senior year! (Well, this year when we saw the prices on the rings we wanted to be Juniors again). Miss Winn was our home room teacher and Helen Jeffries was our class president. Helen made a good president, but it seemed that she had a hard time keeping her class together because of a great epidemic, which mowed down people from eighteen to seventy-five. Scientists said that the disease was caused by a bug, which bit two members of Helen's class; firstly Chancellor Kibler and later, Lillian Brown. If you haven't guessed it, this "bug" is the "Marrying Bug." This year Morton Mille. presided at a very successful District Hi-Y Conference here.

SERIOUS at last! (. . . ah . . . do I hear sighs?) with Mrs. Reams as our class sponsor! Harris "Hayseed" Grimsley, the one and only, was elected class president, but he was out of school most of the year because of an injured leg. We missed "Hay", but we know our loss would be next year's gain. Mr. Campbell coached our football team in five wins against three losses in his first year at Culpeper. Hugh Willis and Johnny Martin received honorable mention on the All Northern Virginia football team. Now final exams near; caps and gowns are selected; invitations have been chosen; and class book pictures taken. The party the Juniors gave us was so much fun. We begin to look back to the Glee Club Operetta "Betty Lou", and Dramatic Club's "The Patsy" in which Sidney Ritter had a leading role. Winnie Hudson had the title role in the Senior play "Here Comes Charlie," a real comedy. Now, we really must leave you, and "youse guys and gals," who are still here in high school, but don't think that we are crazy when we say that we hate to say goodbye.

Class Prophecy

DR. LEE ALEXANDER RHOADES
REQUESTS THE PLEASURE OF YOUR PRESENCE AT DINNER
FRIDAY, JUNE 11, 1946
IN HONOR OF
MISS GEORGIE STRINGFELLOW

8:00 P. M. June the eleventh:

Our press passes enable us to sit at the table with the celebrities. A general air of gayety and suppressed excitement prevails. Between us is Admiral Wade Hampton Hitt of the United States Navy who startled the world with his revolutionary ideas of naval tactics. Those two well known writers, J. Sidney Ritter and Hugh Willis, are here. The former has expounded a new theory in his latest book, "How To Commit Suicide Intelligently", and the latter has compiled a dictionary which lays Webster in the shade.

The foremost universities of the nation, Columbia, Yale, Princeton, and Harvard, are well represented to-night by their presidents, Miss Myra Smith, Miss Mary Walker Mitchell, Miss Eulaleur Mason, and Miss Doris Butler. Ah! And that amazing screen actress, Rewa Hiltonia, in reality Hilton Weaver, and her publicity agent, Douglas White. There have been rumors of a future understanding between the two.

Dr. Rhoades certainly looks splendid to-night. He just arrived from Europe where the foremost dentists were in consultation. Miss Stringfellow by her latest flight has advanced another step in the world of aeronautics. After we look at the sketches of the talented Miss Margaret Carpenter we go from here to the penthouse apartment of that famous aviator and polo player, Johnny Martin.

11:00 P. M.

As we enter the luxuriously furnished apartment we hear soft strains of the "All Girl Orchestra" led by Miss Vernelle Brown. Some of the musicians are Misses Margaret Gilbert, Edith Jasper, Rosebud Jenkins, and Cecile Cabbage, former Culpeper High graduates. We recognize as one of the featured tangoers, Miss Frances Kilby.

When we return to the home of Dr. Rhoades, we turn on the television radio in time to hear the news announcements. Miss Lucy Allport has been selected "Miss America" in the nation wide beauty contest to compete with beauties of other countries. Professor Fielding Gaar has just made known his discoveries with radium. Tandy Guinn, another old friend of ours, has recently signed another contract with the Detroit Tigers. By the way, his engagement to Miss Alice Fitzhugh was announced last week.

As the announcer concludes his report we hear many remarks on how much Misses Kathryn Jenkins and Carolyn Utz are missed. Both of them are teaching in the new Grimsley High School in San Francisco, the largest high school in the world. As you already know, this school was named after our President, Harris Grimsley. But his success has not made "Hayseed" forget his old classmates and friends. In fact, he's going to send us a special message to-night over the radio.

Here he is now! The President of the United States, Harris Grimsley, is telling us how much he would like to be with us, but because of an important consultation with his Secretary of Interior, Virginia Lewis, he is unable to attend. Miss Lewis is busy to-night studying the proposed plan. President Grimsley also congratulates John Thrift on the completion of the world's tallest skyscraper in Chicago, built of glass, and Helen Jeffries on winning the divorce case for Mildred Mastin, famous Follies girl, from Aubrey Wilson, financier.

A few late comers have arrived, Misses Helen Utz, Florrie Mae Boldridge, and Geneva Good. They were attending a board of directors meeting of their large department store which they own and operate.

2:00 P. M.

We must rush to our printing office in order to have an account of the lovely evening spent at Dr. Rhoades' and Mr. Martins' in the early edition of the morning paper. As we turn back for a last glance we are assured by the reluctant manner in which the guests leave that everyone has had a grand time. We only hope that our friends and classmates will be able to meet every year in a similar manner.

JEANNE DAVENPORT and WINIFRED HUDSON

Last Will and Testament

Class of 1936

WE, THE Class of 1936, being about to leave this sphere of learning, do hereby make and publish this, our last will and testament, and we do hereby make the following bequests:

ARTICLE I

TO THE faculty, who have so patiently guided us along the highroad to education throughout our high school days, our heartfelt gratitude for what they have done for us; also for new geometry rules, French words, and other brilliant knowledge that we have coined from time to time for tests and examinations.

To the Junior Class, our Senior dignity which they are to uphold at all times; also the cherished desks in the Senior room, front seats at assemblies, and our places in the teachers' thoughts. To them, also, we give our senior privileges.

To the Sophomore Class, a portion of our bountiful senior dignity; also the ability to get on the honor roll occasionally.

To the Freshman Class, our extra quality credits, hoping they will aid them in their struggle for diplomas.

ARTICLE II

TO MISS WINN, a copyright on "pop" tests to prevent the heart failure that might be caused by such an announcement in some one else's class.

To Bill Carpenter, the power to be as successful a president of the Boys' Hi-Y as L. A. Rhoades has been.

To Charles Edwards, Douglas White's record for good behavior.

To Hollis Colvin, Sidney Ritter's ability to flirt with all the girls at once.

To "Liz" Walker, Myra Smith's sportsmanship.

To Anna Marie Rue, Siste Stringfellow's ability to be the best dressed girl on all occasions. Siste also leaves to Martha Johnson her ability to be every teacher's favorite.

To Hugh Ryan, Buck Gaar's knowledge of science.

To Jean Grant, Helen Jeffries' ability to be a good all-around Senior.

To Anne Johnson, Alice Fitzhugh's bright remarks.

To all the girls in school, the Senior girl's F. F. A. pins, trusting that these pins will retain their popularity.

To Patsy Berry, Winnie Hudson's ability to write features for the Pepergram.

To Lorraine Weaver, Hilton Weaver's favorite mice, if Hilton will share them with anyone.

To Jane Waugh, Margaret Carpenter's slinness.

To the whole school, Gossiping Annie, to gossip about them on all occasions through so public a means of communication as the Pepergram.

To Peggy Berry, the record of never being on time to roll call, jointly owned by Archie Lillard and Jeanne Davenport.

To P. T. Fitzhugh, Lucy Allport leaves a box of handkerchiefs, as he already has a collection of her's.

To Marian Jamison, Virginia Lewis' incessant giggling.

To Jane Waugh, John Thrift's ability to get advertisements for the Pepergram.

To Tinky Martin, Wade Hitt's size.

To Frances Hoffman, Eulaleur Mason's dignity and seriousness.

To Anna Marie Rue, Johnny Martin's sweaters.

To J. B. Hudson, Douglas White's crimson sweater.

To Bobby Mullan, Hugh Willis' taste in scented perfume.

Senior Class Song, 1936

(Tune, "Lights Out")

Goodbye C. H. S., one more perfect term is o'er,
 Goodbye C. H. S., four years of work are through,
 We've reached the hour of parting
 So now to college we go,
 Goodbye C. H. S., pleasant memories go with us.

Goodbye C. H. S., caps and gowns have come,
 Goodbye C. H. S., invitations have been sent,
 We've reached the time of parting,
 So down the aisle we go,
 Goodbye C. H. S., watch us as we leave you now.
